

Microelectronics in the "More than Moore" Age: Becoming a Truly Pervasive Technology

Kensall D. Wise

Emeritus Professor, Electrical Engineering and Computer Science, University of Michigan

Kensall D. Wise received the BSEE degree with highest distinction from Purdue University and the MS and PhD degrees in electrical engineering from Stanford University. From 1969 to 1972, he was a Research Associate at Stanford, pioneering the development of micromachined silicon sensors. In 1974, he joined the University of Michigan, where he is now the William Gould Dow Distinguished University Professor Emeritus of Electrical Engineering and Computer Science. Dr. Wise received the 1996 Columbus Prize, the 1997 SRC Aristotle Award, and the 1999 IEEE Solid-State Circuits Technical Field Award. He held the 2007 Henry Russel Lectureship at the University of Michigan and is a Life Fellow of the IEEE, a Fellow of the AIMBE, and a member of the United States National Academy of Engineering.
